

Dive into your own private pool in these luxe hotel rooms

Regan Stephens Lonely Planet Writer 8 September 2020

Be truly socially distanced with your own private plunge pool © Larent Benoit / le Bathélemy Hotel & Spa

Since March, COVID-19 has prompted travelers to plot more creative adventures, with many prioritizing remote locales and privacy. Cruises and European holidays have been postponed as Americans turn closer to home – hiking through national parks, road-tripping in RVs, and booking hotel rooms with more isolated amenities. According to Google trends, the search for “hotels with private pools in room” has been surging over the last few weeks, and for good reason. These rooms and villas offer the ultimate treat in travel right now: a blissfully secluded oasis. From Arizona to Hawaii, here are nine pools in the US and the Caribbean where you can take your own private plunge.

[...]

The private suites at le Bathélemy have heated plunge pools © Larent Benoit / le Bathélemy Hotel & Spa

Le Barthélemy Hotel & Spa, St-Barthélemy

The tiny French-speaking Caribbean island of St-Barthélemy opened to American visitors in late June (with some requirements, including a negative COVID-19 test from 72 hours prior to arrival), and one of its most celebrated hotels reopens on October 28. The breezy, beachfront Le Barthélemy's Océan Lux Piscine Privée suites have glass doors that slide open to heated plunge pools and panoramic ocean views.