St. Barts is known for its French sophistication, and this polished yet playful resort fits right in. After all, it's the brainchild of a Parisian designer and French chef, who ensure it's up to Gallic standards. Set on a curving stretch of sand called Grand Cul-de-Sac, Le Barthélemy is home to the only Spa La Mer in the Caribbean. It also has Abyss, where chef Jérémy Czaplicki, who helmed award-winning restaurants in France, brings a fine-dining ethos to the French-Caribbean menu. Be sure to order the house champagne; bottles are aged under the surface of the Atlantic Ocean.
